CANTINE IN BAROLO

The enterprising project that is Vite Colte enables dedicated grape-growing families of Piedmont to see a portion of their labours brought to bottle under their own terms. The 180 participating growers work closely with first-class viticulturalists and enologists who provide the best in modern technology, headed by Daniele Eberle in the fields and Bruno Cordero in the winery. These small plots, totalling 300 hectares, have been converting to organic farming. Varietals run the gamut from arneis and erbaluce to sauvignon blanc and nebbiolo, and wines offer good value, particularly the well-crafted Barolos.
